

JAPS OPEN BIG OFFENSIVE AGAINST CHINESE

EXTRA SESSION IS NOT WANTED BY DEMOCRATS

House Leaders Fear That
It May Increase Party
Dissension

WILL SO ADVISE THE WHITE HOUSE

Roosevelt Is Expected to Announce His Plans
Within Few Days

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—A group
of influential house Democrats expressed strong opposition today to a special congressional session in the fall on the grounds it might increase party dissension.

One leader who preferred not to be mentioned by name said "no
practical good and maybe some harm" would come from a special session on farm and wage-hour
legislation. He said he and others of the same view would so advise President Roosevelt before leaving the capital.

Would Let Tempers Cool

He urged time was needed to allow heated tempers to cool and that it would be poor policy for the President to run the risk of reopening party strife in October or November.

Many members, he said, might feel none too kindly toward the administration and its legislative program if they were summoned
back to Washington while in the midst of building political fences
for next year's election.

To the contention that action on a farm bill and a wage-hour measure in the fall would permit shortening the regular January session,
this party chieftain retorted that a special session would not mean
"taking 15 minutes off the regular session."

Some house members nevertheless
said they would prefer to have the farm and labor standards issues
disposed of in a special session, and talk persisted that the President would call one.

Rep. Miller (D., Ark.) said he thought a special session might be desirable.

Announcement Awaited

Miller talked to the President yesterday and predicted afterwards that Mr. Roosevelt would announce in a few days whether he will call
one.

Speaker Bankhead at Birmingham
predicted yesterday the session
would be called.

Secretary Wallace left the White House yesterday asserting he favored
a special meeting and several legislators who have seen Mr. Roosevelt in the past few days indicated
the chief executive was considering the possibility strongly.

One reported the President considered an extra session would be almost imperative should he feel compelled to veto the sugar control
bill.

The President objected, prior to passage of the bill, to the restrictions it places on shipments of refined sugar from Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

"Insurance" Hit

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Promoters
of a bank night insurance scheme
were ordered by Assistant Police Prosecutor David C. Meek to cease operations today. Meek, terming the plan "a scheme of chance," said that bank night patrons had been offered
insurance against losing money
prices because of absence from the drawings.

ward to one of the most successful homecomings in years.

The celebration opens Friday night and runs through Saturday.

OPEN PERSHING ST. THIS WEEK

Workmen, Now Laying
Surface, Near Completion of Job

East Pershing st., between S. Lincoln and Ohio avenues, will be opened to traffic by the end of the week, City Engineer F. S.
Barkhoff promised today.

Completion of the paving of the
thoroughfare which runs past Reilly stadium, is expected within two or three days—weather permitting.

The WPA workmen today neared
the finishing point in laying the asphalt top. Several incidental adjustments, including the laying of sidewalk, will be made after the street paving is completed.

Meanwhile Engineer Barkhoff
studied plans for a winter WPA
project for the city, pointing out,
however, that the city has little
demand for federal-sponsored projects since the relief load has diminished considerably in recent months.

The Pershing st paving will be welcomed by traffic in general, but especially will serve to eliminate congestion near Reilly stadium
during the football season and will also improve parking conditions for grid fans.

Sees That Drivers Pay For Mis-doings

State Highway Patrolman R. I.
Governor of Salem arrested six motorists Sunday, followed them
to court yesterday and saw that they were justly fined for their mis-doings.

Ralph Eckhart of Beaver Falls,
Pa., charged with reckless driving,
was fined $10 and costs, and Joseph Beard, of Canfield, charged with driving with insufficient brakes, was fined $5 and costs in the court of Justice S. S. Weaver at Columbiana.

Roy Rinehart of Minerva, charged with driving recklessly on Route 30, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor G. C. Rauch at Lisbon.

for driving with insufficient lights,
was fined $5 and costs by Mayor
John Arnold at Leetonia.

Hazel Thompson, of Amsterdam,
arrested for reckless driving, was fined $10 and costs, and Harry W.
Brown, of Alliance, was fined $75
and costs for a similar offense
when arraigned before Judge Frank Grosshans at East Liverpool.

SIX ARE KILLED AS FLYING BOAT CRASHES IN BAY

Two Survive After Wreck
of Navy's $150,000
Aircraft

WAS UNDERGOING ROUTINE FLIGHT

Two Ohioans, Annapolis
Graduates, Among Victims

(By Associated Press)
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 24.— Disaster struck the navy's armada
of giant flying boats for the first time last night, killing six of eight men aboard a new $150,000 craft
as it crashed into shallow San Diego
bay.

Two crew members escaped with minor injuries but three officers were killed and the plane almost demolished by the impact. Four bodies had not been recovered today.

Hull submerged
Its hull submerged, the wreck was quickly surrounded by navy and
private ships as giant searchlights
illuminated the bay.

The dead were listed as: W. C.
Dey, Jr., lieutenant; F. L. Wallace, Youngstown, O., lieutenant junior grade; W. M. Freshour, Piqua, O., lieutenant junior grade; R. Fall,
aviation chief machinist's mate; R.
M. Purdy, radioman, second class, and H. K. Bryan, radioman, third class, naval aviation pilot.

Two survivors lifted out of the hull and rushed to naval hospital
are J. W. Blackman, aviation ord-nanceman, second class, only slightly hurt, and T. P. Dougherty, aviation machinist's mate, third class, who suffered shock and multiple lacerations.

The ill-starred plane, PBV-1,
whose sister flying boats have flown
in mass formation to Honolulu and the Canal Zone in the past two years, was undergoing a "routine
night practice flight" for a forthcoming hop to Panama in September.

Strikes Abandoned Ship
As it swooped down for a landing
after being in the air several hours,
the seaplane struck the Narwhal, an abandoned whaling ship once used in filming "Moby Dick."

The 63½-foot hull of the flying boat nosed over in the bay mud,
crushing its metal framework like
paper.

Only the bottom of the fuselage
and the two wing pontoons showed above water.

Lieutenant Wallace, 29, and Lieutenant Freshour, 22, were natives of Ohio and Annapolis naval academy graduates.

Lisbon Carrier, In Harness For 30 Years, To Retire

LISBON, Aug. 24.—After seeing that the mail "got through" for the past 30 years, Elmer J. Cobourn feels that he has earned a rest.
Cobourn, who carried the mail
here for the last 10 years and the other 20 years on the R. D. 5 route out of here, will retire on a pension Thursday.

His route here will be taken over
by Lester Maple and Paul Burnip
until Jan. 1 of next year when a regular carrier will be appointed.

The veteran carrier entered the United States postal service a few years after its installation in Columbiana county and well he remembers the horse-and-buggy days
of mail delivery.

It was nothing at that time to have to cover a mail route extending some 20 miles, Cobourn recalls.
When free delivery was established in the village he was given a job of carrier here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobourn are contemplating a trip south in the near future, having purchased a new
trailer in which to make the journey.

Berrodin Appoints Old Age Advisors

Henry J. Berrodin of Columbus, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, today appointed five more county advisory boards to assist in administration of the old age pension law.

Members of the boards, who will receive expenses only, included:
For Columbiana county—Ambrose
Hancock, Sharon Quigley, Louis
Tobin, and Mrs. Margaret Michels,
all of East Liverpool; and H. W.
Pealy of Salem.

Too Literally

PETERSBURG, Ind.—Denzil Abell
is convinced one can be too conscientious.
He suffered a broken arm in a fall from a horse several weeks ago.
A physician told Abell to exercise
the arm after the cast was removed.
Abell took it advice—so literally he dislocated his shoulder.

Death Toll Mounts As Shanghai Is Rocked By Shells

Shanghai's death toll mounted as Japanese and Chinese big guns continued to bombard enemy positions, bringing terror and destruction to the panic-stricken city. One huge shell landed in the crowded shopping district of the International Settlement along Nanking road, killing more than 300 and injuring several hundred others, among them scores of nationals. As the duel between Chinese land batteries and Japanese naval guns continued, street fighting grew fiercer as the battle crept toward the heart of the ancient former capital, which is the gateway to a rich agricultural section.

BABY IS STOLEN FROM CARRIAGE

Three-Month-Old Tot Is Taken In Full View
of Shoppers

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Police officials pressed every available man
into the search today for a three-
months-old girl and the abductor
who snatched her from a baby carriage in full view of hundreds of shoppers.

The child, Diane Carol, disappeared from the carriage outside a grocery in the north side while her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lucas, 22, was making supper purchases yesterday.

The abductor apparently escaped
without arousing the suspicion of anyone in the street crowds. Police were unable to find anyone who had seen the baby taken. Nor did they uncover a plausible motive.

Mrs. Lucas waited nearly an hour before notifying police. She feels that she thought her husband, Herman, 31, had taken the baby as a joke during her 10 minutes absence
and would soon return. Police found the father at home, unaware of the abduction.

The distraught mother collapsed
when she realized the child was gone. The baby was still being nursed by Mrs. Lucas, who described her as having brown eyes
and brown hair, an olive skin,
weighing 13 pounds and wearing a
white dress and pink knitted shoes.

Investigators expressed doubt the infant was taken for ransom. They said the parents were in moderate circumstances. Lucas is a carpet layer and repairman.

Police Sgt. Michael Ahern advanced the theory the girl was taken by a childless couple or by some mother who recently had lost
a child.

Mrs. Lucas suggested another theory when she told police a former
woman friend of her husband
had tried to break up their romance
before their marriage Aug. 8, 1934.

She said the woman lives in New York but recently had been in Chicago. She was sought for questioning.

Sues For $25,000 In Auto Collision

LISBON, Aug. 24.—Alleging permanent injuries resulting from an auto collision, Mrs. Elizabeth Bach of East Liverpool filed suit Monday for $25,000 damages naming Evelyn Ketchem, Salineville, and Louise Orr, West Point-Gavers rd, defendants.

Mrs. Bach, in her petition, states
she was a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Paul Bach, on June 14, 1937. At a point on Route 39 east of Salineville a car operated by the defendants attempted to pass the plaintiff's machine. When the two cars were abreast, Mrs. Bach declares the other machine turned to the right, knocking the Bach car
into the ditch.

The plaintiff says as a result of the accident she sustained a crippled right arm and suffered the loss of the index finger on her right hand.

16-Year-Old Girl Knows More Of Sex Than Grandmother

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—A Michigan clergyman, once a physician, told Buffalo's inter-denominational Bible conference last night that the average 16-year-old girl of today "knows more about sex than her grandmother did after she'd had her first baby."

"Debauchery of sex and the
sanctity of the home are driving America toward moral doom," the Rev. Dr. M. R. De Hann of Grand Rapids, Mich., said at the annual Bible retreat at Evangelical park.

"Just look at our modern families," he declared. "People have forgotten that in the old days it was considered a chastisement
from God when a family was childless."

"People don't want children anymore. They have forgotten that children are a heritage from God."
"Oh, yes, one child is all right,
and you can have two and still remain in high society."

"But three or more! That brands
you as some sort of an uncivilized
being."

ASKS GRAND JURY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—Att'y
Gen. Herbert S. Duffy asked Gov. Martin L. Davey today for authority to impanel a grand jury to receive information regarding the three-month-old neutrality act
unless China and Japan severed
diplomatic relations.

(President Roosevelt must invoke
the act when he finds that a state
of war exists between two countries. It automatically embargoes
shipments of arms, munitions and
implements of war, as well as loans,
to those nations.)

KILLED IN FALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Mrs.
Florence P. Temple, former wife of Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company,
was killed today in a fall from her eleventh floor apartment in a west 57th street hotel. Her marriage to Gifford ended in divorce at Reno in 1929.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Miss
Isabel Hallin, the Saugus, Mass., school marm accused of serving cocktails to her drama-
tistics students, will get a screen
test here tomorrow.

The cocktail accusation—actually Miss Hallin said, she served no cocktails—brought about her dismissal from the Saugus teaching job.

ORIENT ACCORD ASKED BY HULL

Declares World Opinion
Demands Peaceful
Settlement

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—A pointed, public statement from Secretary Hull emphasized to Japan and China today the United States' view that world opinion demanded a peaceful settlement of their dispute.

Telling the two nations that a threat of serious hostilities concerned all others, Hull said "we urge that they settle their differences in accordance with principles which in the opinion, not alone of our people but of most
peoples of the world, should govern
in international relationships."

Doesn't Pass Judgment

"Without attempting to pass
judgment regarding the merits of the controversy," he said, "we appeal to the parties to refrain from resort to war."

His words prompted new speculation over possible further action by the United States. There was considered little likelihood, however,
the government would invoke the three-month-old neutrality act unless China and Japan severed
diplomatic relations.

(President Roosevelt must invoke
the act when he finds that a state
of war exists between two countries. It automatically embargoes
shipments of arms, munitions and
implements of war, as well as loans,
to those nations.)

Yarnell Warns Both Sides

Hull's statement came at almost the same time Admiral Harry E.
Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, reported to the navy department he had warned
both sides "to exercise more care"
in directing their fire.

Yarnell said a special board of investigation had not been able to decide whether it was a Japanese or Chinese shell which killed one sailor and injured 18 on his flagship, the Augusta, last week.

Youth Owes Life To His Harmonica

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 24.—Chief of Police H. J. McDermott today issued a warning against the discharge of firearms within the city limits, and directed attention specially to rifles.

He cited the case of Paul Robinson, St. Louis, Mo., who was walking along East Sixth st., Saturday,
when a bullet lodged in a harmonica he was carrying in his vest
pocket.

Cost Too Much

HELENA, Mont.—"What will the license cost," a woman with her prospective husband asked the marriage license clerk. She was told the fee was $2. The clerk then said
the minister's fee customarily was $5.
"Say, I wouldn't pay $5 to marry
any man on earth."
The couple left, sans license.

'SUICIDE' SOLDIERS IN FRONT

Vast Areas of Shanghai Are Swept By Flames

JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Writer

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Japanese
planes, naval guns and landing
parties smashed at Shanghai today
in a promised "big offensive"
against stubborn Chinese resistance.

I saw two Japanese airplane carriers anchored near Saddle islands
at the mouth of the Yangtze catapult plane after plane into the air
to bomb Chinese machine gun positions near the Wusong shore.

In the midst of exploding bombs
and artillery shells 212 Americans were evacuated aboard the liner
President Pierce for Manila.

The battle raged down the Whangpoo and along the Yangtze.
Japanese landed thousands of reinforcements. They were led by suicide detachments of the "white
band of death."

"Glorious Death"

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—The navy department said today a Japanese pilot whose plane caught fire from Chinese bullets over Shanghai "deliberately plunged into an enemy position, thus achieving a glorious death."

Japs Drive from North

The Japanese were driving in from the north to assault the Chinese left flank. Japanese army
spokesmen declared reinforcements
they landed in the Wusong area
yesterday and today already had advanced at different points from one to two miles.

General Iwane Matsui, former
commanding general on the island
of Formosa and a former member of the supreme war council, came out of retirement to take command
of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area.

A member of the Japanese staff
declared: "Our forces will meet the Chinese troops, regardless of the time and place."

I sailed down the Whangpoo
with the American refugees who boarded the President Pierce. For the first time United States officials decided the refugees should be conveyed with a warship.

Against the clear sky, Japanese
sea and land planes emblazoned
with the rising sun insignia darted
over Chinese positions, dropping bombs and swooping down to blast
machine gun bullets into the enemy lines.

After the party of refugees was transferred to the President Pierce,
the destroyer uncovered her guns
and escorted the liner through the raging battle to the sea.

University Shelled

Coming back, I saw four huge shell holes in buildings of the University of Shanghai on the Whangpoo river. The institution is run by American Baptists.

The battle area immediately
about international Shanghai was vastly different from yesterday. Because of the Japanese flanking movement, Chinese forces in the Yangtzepoo and Ward road jail
areas withdrew to new positions
north of the International Settlement boundary.

Yantzepoo which 24 hours before
had been in the center of the gun and shell fire, were as quiet
as a grave.

Today only ruins and scores of burned buildings were left to be guarded by street corner Japanese sentry posts.

Where the Whangpoo meets the Yangtze the battle developed into the most terrible fighting of the war.

School Will Hold Reunion Wednesday

LISBON, Aug. 24.—The annual reunion of former students and teachers of the Township Line
school, located at the junction of school Wednesday.

More than 100 are expected to take part in the basket dinner at

SHOPPING TOUR

Far from scenes of exploding shells and bodies mutilated by hurtling fragments of steel, Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinese foreign minister, is busy on a shopping tour.

Maybe he's not enjoying it, but the merchants are. Very much.

Dr. Kung has completed an arrangement with one outfit—Skoda of Czechoslovakia—whereby he can buy on credit up to $50,000,000. That means Skoda will have to put on more help. Everybody will be happy.

When Dr. Kung arrived in Austria to do business the government showed its appreciation by awarding him the medal of the Order of Merit (first class). Austria has some nice places to do business, too.

But the deal with Skoda is the one that counts. It's heavy sugar—$50,000,000. Skoda, if you've forgotten, specializes in implements of war. Things are looking up for it, as they are for merchants all over the world.

War—and this is what peace advocates don't seem to be able to do anything about—makes good business.

LAST LEG

August now hobbles on the last leg of the vacation season. In the next week or so most of the remainder of the vacationists will troop back reluctantly to another 50 weeks of toil.

In the case of the outdoor clan—the wood, field and stream folk—the period between vacations is especially important. For it is in that period that they prepare themselves amid the luxury of running water, electricity and gas to enjoy the sudden reversion to kerosene lamps, pumps and wood stoves.

Before Labor day more thousands of them will be off to parts unknown "to rough it" for a few days. This is by all means one of the strangest things about Americans, that they should enjoy so thoroughly a temporary return to some of the hardships of life which, when they had to endure them, were the signs of a less abundant life.

Not all Americans, to be sure, feel that way about vacations, but enough of them do to give sociologists something to ponder over.

IF IOWA INSISTS

Iowa is the greatest corn producing state in the union. No one disputes that. It doesn't follow, however, that Iowa produces the greatest corn. Take Ohio, for instance.

Ohio takes corn in its stride. This state's interests are diversified. It is third in industry, but it could make out all right in farming if it had to.

The point is that Iowa and Ohio are having an argument over tall corn. This state, more or less in jest, has asked Iowa to give up its title, "the state where the tall corn grows." In Pike county, it seems, they've raised some corn 17 feet and more tall, while out in Iowa they're boasting about 16 foot stalks.

The truth is, Ohio doesn't really want to take the title from Iowa, but merely would like Hawkeyes to admit that Buckeyes know a few things about field corn. However, if they don't want to play nice, it may become necessary to tell the secret of Ohio's tall corn.

In this state, one third of the stalk is beneath the ground, like the foundation of a skyscraper—and that part hasn't even been measured yet. If Iowa insists, Ohio corn growers will go into this thing seriously.

AH, PICKLES!

Consider the baby cucumber. There he lies, product of man's ingenuity in outwitting nature, which for some reason or other seems reluctant to offer so tempting a morsel to gardeners unless coaxed and cajoled with fertilizer and lime.

He is no larger than a man's finger and the little bumps on his verdant skin only suggest the adolescence he will never enjoy. Though shrewdly hiding himself under a leaf, he will be found out and snatched from his warm, drowsy environment about this time of year to be carried to an inferno of buckets of water, pungent smells and drowned helplessly without even a struggle to mark his passing.

Sometime later, he and his companions in embalmment will be fished to the surface again and their well soaked aromatic little carcasses laid out on a plate, unless they have had the bad fortune to be sliced to pieces somewhere along the way. In either event, a greedy eyed monster with a poised fork will spy them and shout, "Ah, pickles. Pass 'em up this way, please."

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, August 25

An interesting day, with matters taking unusual turns out of the routine, may be presaged from the ruling lunar and mutual aspects. While employment may have its minor anxieties, in other directions there are important developments probably calling for change or travel, causing expenditures or extravagances out of the customary schedule. These may be deemed necessary in putting over some ambitious or unique scheme, which might have to do with the emotional nature or some novel creative talent.

If This Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised should a matter quite out of the routine develop during the year. It might be the expression of an unusual talent, with modernistic trends, or an emotional experience of intriguing or inspiring aspect. But all may involve change, expense, extravagance, with social prestige and much pleasure being derived. A child born on this day may be endowed with gifts of an original, creative and ambitious nature which may place it in the public eye. It may be conspicuous for some subtle, singular or startling discovery or craft. It may have strong emotional and inspirational urges.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Broadway offered two highly entertaining free shows this summer, which often tied up traffic in a complete knot and required police to keep the sidewalk crowds moving. The free shows were seen by millions and were a buildup for the wizardry of the young sign king, Douglas Leigh.

One of the shows was a small electrical sign on the east side of Times Square; the other much larger spread across the Astor theatre to ballyhoo a movie Young Leigh came to the big town from Florida several years ago hugging his big dream, and got the usual buffeting.

To give action, life and variety to the Great White Way would seem a job of life painting. But that was Leigh's dream and he realized it, being rewarded to date with assets of a half million. His signs cut capers, play tricks and tell stories. Ducks dive for fish and elephants ride velocipedes.

Dogs bark at the moon and snap at their tails. Camels turn about nonchalantly and bite off their humps, groundhogs come out looking for the sun and do a snappy rumba. In a few short months he has made most of the elaborate signs hereabout seem as up to date as a Gay '90 dress.

In this modern whirl I think I miss most the old time drug store and the utter abandonment of the "sample table" near the entrance. It was spread so enchantingly with free little tins of horrible smelling salves, vials of pills and bottles of cough cures. Also those gratis pamphlets with the shuddery list of symptoms. There was ghastly but entrancing horror, sitting about the parlor lamp imagining you suffered from the major maladies. I recall one deplorable period when I was certain I was in the last throes of a combination of Bright's disease, swamp fever, lumbago and arteriosclerosis. I was 14 and suffering largely from what grandma called "the bots"—an inclination to moon over the girls and a disinclination to indulge anything suggesting work.

Strangers who enjoy New York most I think are those who come here without advance plans and simply let themselves go. Like John Burroughs in London, who wandered until he got lost, pulled out his shilling map and found himself again. There are pivotal points from which one may start: Radio City, The Empire, The Battery, Central Park, Times Square, etc., but after this any set plans are boring. For instance, in early days in New York, I used to idle away an entire evening browsing along that block on West 47th street between Broadway and 6th avenue, known as Malaria Alley. It fascinated me before I learned it was one of the hardest-boiled areas of the city. There are many such stretches and one comes upon them just wandering.

Leonard Hall calls Jerome Zerbe, "society's honey boy photographer." An apt phrasing for a young socialite who has lifted snapshotting celebrities into the trade realms of white tie and tails. Zerbe, most of whose shots are taken at "No. 21," the Stork club and El Morocco, fares forth for his daily chores after theatre, all resplendent in top hat and clawhammer coat. He has a familiar brush with such names as Vanderbilt, Whitney, Golet and the like and they willingly pose for him in mink and ermine. Such pictures are snapped up by society magazines and newspaper pages dealing with things Cholly Knickerbocker works up a latter about.

With few exceptions, New York stage door keepers are deaf or partially so. They are elderly, of course, but that they should be deaf seems mere coincidence. The doorman is kindly, beloved by players. His salary is small but if he happens to have a job where there has been a run he receives a nice purse from the company when the show closes. Door keepers are much alike. They sit in backless chairs, puffing pipes and not interested in the potpourri of gossip back stage. Unlike wardrobe women, not many were players.

Boy meets Girl. They weaved out of a snack bar in inarticulate blurr. He staggered toward a taxi at the curb, plunged into it and was off without a word. She swayed down the street. But after a few steps turned and called: "You certainly drunk me up pretty, you tomato!"

SUMMER HEALTH CHECK

Thousands and thousands of school children are now on their summer vacations. They are pleased to be free from the daily routine of the school room. But the parents must not forget that this is the time of the year when the child should receive a complete physical examination.

I urge this, not alone for the physical welfare of the child. It is a well known fact that a poor school report is caused by something besides lack of intelligence on the part of the youngster. It may be influenced largely by certain physical defects. For example, many children suffer from undernourishment and malnutrition and, in consequence, are prevented from making normal mental progress.

Balanced Diet Vital
It is an astonishing fact that many children with marked signs of malnutrition come from homes that can readily afford an abundance of good food. The trouble with such children is that they eat too much candy, pastry and other non-essential foods between meals and, of course, have no appetite at table for the really important foods. The necessity for a well-balanced, varied diet cannot be overstated.

In addition to the state of his nutrition, the child's sight and hearing should be tested. Often the child with poor sight has difficulty in his work and may be totally unable to see what the teacher writes on the blackboard. His failure to progress is too often attributed to laziness and indifference to school work, when, as a matter of fact, there is a physical foundation for the whole trouble.

Impairment in the hearing makes it difficult for the child to hear what the teacher has to say. When the defect is overlooked, it will be seen how such a handicap quickly lands the child in the backward group. Once these defects are recognized and the necessary measures taken to overcome them, the child's work immediately improves.

This is the time of the year for the removal of enlarged and diseased tonsils. When a child suffers from frequent attacks of tonsillitis, a great deal of valuable school time is lost. The summer is the ideal time to get rid of the trouble.

A visit to the doctor now will insure correction of all bodily defects. It will do much to guard against certain diseases, and will go far to insure the child good health. When vacation is over, he will return to school better fitted for his work.

"THE CAPTIVE BRIDE"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER XXVIII

In the faint light from storm-tossed windows, Denny paced the floor of her room in the Hotel Warrington.

Since her arrival early in the morning, she had been alone, with nothing to do but think.

The maid, as Bourne had predicted, had doctored at daybreak. Van Cleve was immediately whisked away in the one waiting taxi to the hospital on the hill. Bourne had taken her in another car to the hotel near the dock.

In the deserted lobby the proprietor received them with a hearty "Congratulations, Captain! Glad to have you with us, Mrs. Bourne!"

"Mrs. Bourne! The shock of hearing herself so addressed brought Denny out of the haze of unreality that had enveloped her since her hasty wedding in the pilot-house. Was it necessary that she act the role of happy bride, she asked herself in a small panic, as she and Bourne mounted the stairs in the wake of the attentive proprietor.

She could not remember how she had responded to Revere's solicitous arrangements for her comfort when they reached her room. She recalled only her keen relief when he left her and the alacrity with which she had handed the proprietor the cable to Sylvia, which she had written out before leaving the maid. That message was so gay, so spiced with exuberant adjectives and superlatives of happiness, that she seemed at her own ability to so dissimulate in her hour of despair.

That Sylvia had swirled immediately into activity to spread the news of the marriage by telephone and through the newspapers was evidenced by her answering cable, which arrived at lunch time. It was a lengthy communication containing her astonished delight, her prediction, her best wishes, and an outline of social affairs she was planning to welcome her daughter and new son-in-law.

Reading it, Denny knew that she should be satisfied; but for some reason she was not. Now that a measure of composure had come to her, she was appalled at the thing she had done to Revere Bourne. To save her injured pride, to save her face before her circle of friends in San Francisco, she had taken advantage of his exaltation in a high moment and tricked him into a wedding which she never intended should be a real marriage.

True, she had made an attempt to acquaint him with her purpose before it was too late; but, when he refused to listen, she had been glad of the opportunity to hide her humiliating reason for wanting to marry him. And now all her innate honesty rose up to castigate her. She felt that she had acted like a cheat and a weakling.

If she could retain her self-respect, she must tell Bourne the facts immediately, without seeking to excuse or defend herself. He might forgive her; might even be generous enough, chivalrous enough, to accompany her south and act his part for the sake of her father, who had been his friend.

She had begun to wait impatiently for his return to the room, so that she might get the ordeal over. But hour after hour had gone by, bringing no word from him and no sight of him. Already daylight was fading, and her nerves seemed at the breaking point from uncertainty and the continuous lashing of the storm.

"How does he dare leave me alone so long in this horrible place?" she thought, resuming her pacing. "Where is he? Why doesn't he come?" Resentment took root in her mind.

She began to remember all the things she had against him—his remark about leading him on; his self-sufficiency in the matter of Jack Page; his aloofness where she was concerned; his cool rebuff that day at Lonewater. It would serve him right, she told herself, if she went on with her deception and paraded him before her California friends, and then cast him aside. It might teach him a lesson; shake his assumption of competence and shatter his insufferable conceit.

Then, even as she worked herself up into a rage that would serve to justify her contemplated deception, she became aware that she was reasoning like her mother, who invariably blamed some one else for faults solely her own. However justified her anger at Bourne's desertion today, she had to admit that her present predicament was of her own making. She had asked him to marry her—and he had.

But—suppose he suspected he had been tricked into a marriage which was to be no marriage? Was he going to desert her on their wedding day to get even? The thought filled her with alarm. She recalled his eyes that brooked no suggestion of any status other than that of command; his firm lips that always seemed to her to hold a hint of cruelty.

A little wildly her mind went back to their wedding ceremony. Immediately after the Commandant had pronounced them man and wife, Bourne had bowed her to her stateroom and left her there with a smile. A peculiarly enigmatic smile, she remembered now.

She was wondering what he had meant by it when a hitherto unconsidered contingency, worse, even, than the prospect of his desertion, set her heart palpitating. What if he insisted on the actual fulfillment of this contract into which he had entered at her invitation?

"Oh, I'm being ridiculous!" she told herself.

At the peak of her mental anguish a rap sounded on her door. She jerked herself to a standstill, feeling as if her knees had turned to water. "He's come!" she thought distractedly. "I won't let him in!" Then she took scornful command of herself, crossed to the door, and swung it open.

He was standing there, smiling at her.

Her first thought was one of amazement that he bore no resemblance to the terrifying male she had just been picturing. On the contrary, he was casual and most reassuringly urban. His topcoat hung with an air from his shoulders; his felt hat, which he instantly removed, seemed to have been made expressly for his shining blond head. His every garment spoke quietly of its origin in the most exclusive of city shops.

In her relief she greeted him with genuine warmth.

"Oh, Captain! I am glad to see you! I've been wondering—" She faltered, confused for an instant by his eyes which were on hers with that intent "white water" look she knew. Then he smiled again.

"I hope you haven't been bored to death, Denise," he said, stepping briskly into the room.

She gave way before him, a little disconcerted. She had intended inviting him in, of course, but he might at least have waited for her invitation, she thought, as she closed the door.

When she turned back into the room, her eyes widened in a quick hostile stare. His back was turned toward her and he was leisurely crossing to her clothes closet. He opened the door and paused for a moment, appraising her wraps and dresses hanging there. She could scarcely believe the evidence of her senses when she saw him calmly slip one of her coats from its hanger, drape it over the top of another garment, and appropriate the hanger to the use of his topcoat.

He placed his hat on the shelf above, all the time talking cheerfully, with his head in the closet.

"I rushed the loading all I could, in order to get back here, Denise. But as you know, it's been a devil of a day for making speed."

"Well," he said cheerfully, bringing his hands together, "home is the sailor, home from the sea! How does it seem, my dear, to be the wife of a hardy, Northern mariner?"

Wife! The word leaped out at Denny and beat in her ears in time to the swish, swish, swish of the rain driven against the window.

Wife, wife, wife! She stared at him, suddenly aware of an electric tension in the air. Her anger vanished in a wave of fear. All the blood in her body seemed to drain away, leaving her numb and suspended in a vacuum.

For Revere Bourne, with his strangely lighted eyes on hers, was coming toward her, his hands half extended.

After the first instant of panic, Denny regained partial command of herself, and with a slow, slow, hoped might look like casualness, she placed the desk between her and the advancing captain. In order to steady herself, she placed both hands on its polished top.

Bourne halted on the opposite side and put his warm palms over her fingers. Her heart skipped a beat at his touch; his nearness made her faintly dizzy. When she tried to look at his face so close to hers, it swam before her eyes.

She lowered her lids and gently began to disengage her hands. She was both surprised and relieved when he made no effort to hold them. A moment later she sank into a convenient chair.

"Little dark child," he said, in a low voice that held a hint of secret amusement, "I asked you how you

LIQUOR, CRIME LAWS IN EFFECT

Statutes Will Regulate Sale of Warehouse Receipts

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24.—New laws designed to regulate the sale of liquor warehouse receipts and to combat crime were among those which went into effect in Ohio today.

The state securities department took over control and supervision of liquor warehouse receipt sales under provisions of the new legislation.

Henceforth all such receipts must be qualified by the department before sale is permitted and salesmen must obtain licenses similar to those issued dealers in other securities.

The anti-crime laws are designed to aid in the apprehension and prosecution of criminals. Conforming to laws recently enacted by most other states, they form part of a nation-wide program for combating crime.

Officers of states having the uniform laws are permitted by one of the new laws to cross boundaries of those states to compel the attendance of material witnesses before a grand jury or at the trial of the accused.

Another authorizes peace officers to cross state lines in pursuit of criminals only to the boundaries of their own state.

Minor changes in the liquor control act also became effective today.

They provide for a new $50 permit for selling prepared cocktails, bottled highballs, cordials and other mixed beverages; increase the club permit fee from $100 to $200 and prohibit drug stores from selling liquor on prescription.

The refund of 90 per cent of all unearned permit fees in case a locality votes dry is required in another new provision. Permits are authorized to continue business until the refunds are made.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Youngstown Girl Is Bride Of John A. Reeves, Salem

Palms, ferns, gladioli and tapers arranged in altar effect formed a setting for the wedding yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Scotwick Manor, Wick ave., Youngstown, of Miss Frances Elizabeth Oatsdean of Youngstown and John Albert Reeves of Salem.

Vows, exchanged before the fireplace in the large living room, were heard by Rev. Denton, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Youngstown. Manor rooms were decorated with gladioli and dahlias. Branch candelabra holding white cathedral tapers lighted the scene. The ceremony was attended by 75 guests from Salem, Cleveland, Girard and Youngstown.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white tulle over white satin. She wore a band of gardenias in her hair in place of the usual cap or veil and carried a bouquet of white bridal roses.

Miss Wilma Noble of Youngstown, maid of honor, wore peach net over satin and carried flowers of a harmonizing shade. Eldon Gibbons of Salem served as Mr. Reeves' attendant.

Miss Oatsdean was given in marriage by her uncle, Byrl W. Oatsdean, of Youngstown. Mrs. J. Herbert Yengling of Salem sang "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony and Miss Margaret Kirk-bridge, Salem, played the Lohengrin wedding march.

Old Timers Gain Sixth Victory As Class A League Stages Four-Game Program

Mullins, Ohio Edison And Salem News Gain Wins In Other Class A Loop Tilts

Foremen Eliminate Trades Class From Third Round Race; Ohio Edison Edges American Lunch; News Conquers Salem China

The Class A Softball league put on its biggest show of the season out at Centennial park last evening, sending eight of its nine teams into action in four games.

The increased activity was due to the fact that league officials hope to bring the third round to a close this week in order to get the championship play-offs in both Class A and Class B started next Monday.

Three games will be played on another heavy schedule at the park this evening.

Featuring last evening's four-game program was the Old Timers sixth straight victory of the third round, gained at the expense of Demings, 11 to 1.

The Old Timers are leading the third round race and unless beaten in one of their two remaining games are certain to capture the round championship.

George (Sim) Earley's four hits out of four trips to the plate paved the way for the sixth win of the round. Two of Earley's blows were good for the circuit.

Demings never had a chance after the Old Timers uncorked their heavy artillery in the second frame to score six runs. The veterans added other scores in the fourth and sixth frames.

Earley worked the full route on the mound for the veterans, hurling good ball in limiting Demings to three hits and one run.

The Trades Class fell completely out of the Class A third round championship picture in one of the other games, losing to Mullins Foremen, 7 to 4. It was the Tradesmen's second defeat of the round.

Three runs in the last half of the fifth inning won the game for Mullins after the Trades Class had tied the score at 4-4 in the first half of the fifth frame.

The game was played on practically even terms from the hitting angle with the Trades Class getting nine base blows to the Foremen's ten.

The Salem News and Salem China played only five innings in their contest, which saw the Newsies win 8 to 7 after a last inning rally.

The News trailed 7 to 4 going into the last half of the final frame.

Home runs by Mat Carr and Bruce Cope sided the Ohio Edison to defeat the American Lunch, 8 to 7, in an extra-inning contest.

The Edisonites came from behind to tie the score in the seventh inning and then pushed over the winning run in the last half of the extra frame.

WILSON TIGERS BEAT BSA NINE

Salem Lads Wallop Steubenville, 19-7, at Dunn Eden Lake

Combining their 10 base hits with six of their opponents' errors, the Wilson St. Tigers walloped the Steubenville B. S. A. nine, 19 to 7, at Dunn Eden park yesterday.

The Tigers scored in every inning but two, enjoying their biggest spree in the second frame when they tallied six runs. Steubenville was held to one run up until the seventh inning when the River City lads scored six markers.

WOMAN SHOOTER STAR OF GRAND AMERICAN MEET

Mrs. Lela Hall Favored to Capture Third Championship

VANDALIA, Aug. 24.—Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, farm boy, and Mrs. Lela Hall, Strasburg, Mo., housewife, had a chance to make trap-shooting history today by winning their third consecutive national clay target championships—a feat never performed in the 38-year tenure of the Grand American program.

Hiestand, the nation's No. 1 scattergun artist, won the men's crown the last two years with scores of 199 of 200, while Mrs. Hall took the feminine laurels in 1935 with 191 of 200, and last year with 196 of 200, the latter score a record for her sex.

As they took the traps today for the 200-target feature, the betting was heavy that Mrs. Hall would repeat, but that Hiestand, who had been off form for several days, would be forced to relinquish his crown.

Only twice before has a shooter won the men's North American clay target title twice in a row, last in 1929 and 1930, and the trick in 1929 and 1930, and F. S. Wright of Buffalo, N. Y., making the grade in 1919 and 1920, but both failed to make it three.

Mrs. Hall is the only woman to win the feminine crown twice in a row since Mrs. E. L. King of Winona, Minn., did it in 1922 and 1923.

Mrs. Hall, winner of the national Class A championship, which included a decision over the men shooters, in 1935, and third in the Grand American handicap, the sport's premier event, the same year, was a definite favorite to make it three straight, despite the stellar field lined up against her.

In a 200-target event Sunday and Monday, she turned in scores of 197 each day—the best a woman has ever done at Vandalia. Along with the national clay target championships today, the 10-man teams representing the east and west clashed in their annual 200-target scrap as a feature event.

The greatest scoring barrage in the history of the "Grand" was put on yesterday as five championships were decided, a total of 41 perfect scores of 100 in a row being posted on the boards, along with three 200 of 200 scores.

Hale C. Jones of Wood River, Ill., won the feature event, the "Champion of Champions" race for state titleholders, breaking 100 in a row in the regular shoot and then beating three others in a 25-target shootoff with a perfect count.

Jones, the defending champion, broke 325 targets in a row in the day's two feature events, but lost the Class AA laurels to Tom Lovett of Houston, Tex., on the flip of a coin after they decided not to shoot off after each had broken 200 straight.

Other championships decided yesterday, with the winning scores: Husband and wife—Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hess of Philadelphia, Pa., 383 of 400.

Junior—Stanley Meadows, 17, of Des Moines, Ia., 98 of 100.
Sub-Junior—Rudy Eichen, 14, of Wichita, Kan., 95 of 100.
Senior—E. E. Daniels, 69, of Birmingham, Mich., 195 of 200.

Springfield May Be Host To Tourney

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 24.—Henry E. Worley, state commissioner for the National Baseball congress, said today that Springfield had an excellent chance to become host to the 1938 National Semi-Pro Baseball tournament provided Ohio can establish a well organized diamond program by that time.

He said there would be no tourney to determine the champion semi-pro team of the state this year because there was no assurance that the winner could compete in the national event at Battle Creek, Mich. Teams in Cincinnati, Canton and Cleveland had signified their willingness to compete.

Fair Opens

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 24.—The annual Lawrence county fair opened here today, featuring one of the best wild west rodeos ever seen in this section of the nation.

The fair continues day and night, closing Friday.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The smallest turnout of visiting scribes at an important heavyweight bout since Braddock beat Baer will see Louis and Farr.

Reports keep coming in: Watch Wisconsin in the Big Ten this year. Coach Harry Stuhldreher has things up his sleeve. The dolls are agog because Jim London is back in America.

Our No. 1 pitcher in baseball is Carl Hubbell, with Dizzy Dean second. Two boys who are going places in baseball are Dan W. Hill, president of the Piedmont league, and Earl Mann, boss of the Atlanta Crackers.

One big league club is said to have its eye on Mann as boss of a planned Baer system. Southern fans who went wild over Al Schacht say he has developed a half dozen new acts.

It's going to be a tough break for Purdue university if Nobel Kiser isn't able to coach again. As the date of the big fight nears, it looks more and more like a $250,000 gross for Louis and Farr.

Among the ex-champs at the ringside will be Jack Dempsey, James J. Braddock, Jack Sharkey and Max Baer. Bet you Braddock rates as many cheers as Dempsey when they are introduced from the ringside.

The Giant front office is getting durned good and tired of denying that new Terry contract report and may make it official any hour now.

Only superstition of Tony Lazzari, Yankee second sacker, is a clean home plate. He deliberately kicks dirt over it every time he's in the batter's box.

Yes, theumps get sore. Ray Fabiani, the Philadelphia concert master, is making a hit as director of wrestling at the New York hippodrome. Everyone is glad to see Ernie Lombardi having such a swell year with the Cincinnati Reds.

Nobody is worrying much about Max Schmeling's latest plight. He brought it on himself. Before he met Braddock last June, Joe Louis wrote Max that if he won he would make his first title defense against Schmeling and split 60 per cent of the net gate with him.

Nothing could be fairer than that. Well, Mike Jacobs said he bombarded Max with cablegrams and trans-Atlantic telephone calls but didn't get a rise out of him.

Gangster Arrested By Federal Agents

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Herold H. Reinecke, head of the local office of the department of justice, announced today federal agents here have arrested Anthony Joseph Amersbach, 40, whom he described as "one of the last remnants of the Karpis-Barker gang."

Reinecke said Amersbach is under indictment in Toledo federal court on charges of accessory after the fact in the kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul and harboring members of the Karpis gang.

He was arrested in a tavern here last night and will be turned over to the United States marshal later today.

Reinecke said Amersbach had been "in and out of Indianapolis" for several weeks and also had been reported in Kentucky. Although federal agents had information he usually carried two guns, he was unarmed when arrested last night.

Lead Pencil O. K.

LISBON, Aug. 24.—Petitioners for local option may sign their names with a lead pencil, according to a ruling received Monday by Prosecutor Karl Stouffer from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

The ruling was contingent on the endorsement meeting all other qualifications.
